KEYMACRO is a companion application to the popular AutoHotKey scripting utility, which allows you to use the macros you create on multiple computers without having to learn keyboard shortcuts on every machine. Once you've installed and configured the application, you are ready to start creating macros. The first step is selecting a macro template, which will appear in the main window as a list of macros. After you've selected one of the listed macros, you can create a new one or modify an existing one. A step-by-step wizard helps you create macros for basic Windows functions such as start and open programs, minimize and restore programs, search and search files, start or save files, or open any type of file. The macro options can be edited at any time by double-clicking the selected text or by changing the options. A preview of the macro will appear in the main window when you select a template. When you are satisfied with the macro, you can save it to use it later on. You can also create a shortcut to the macro. After that, the macro can be executed at any time from the keyboard. Once you've created macros for the features you use most often, you can execute them on multiple computers without having to change your keyboard shortcuts on each computer. If you need a shortcut to some application or function in Windows, you can create one by selecting the desired application or function in the list of macros, and then, in the Advanced Options dialog, selecting the Key Macro Type: "WindowsKey" option. The KeyMACRO can be installed for free on Windows XP, Vista, 7, 8, and 10 and has no restrictions on the use of macros.
